

Lauren Castillo supports Proposition 115 in Colorado

“I delivered my first son prematurely while I was still in school. Having been a young mother while I was in college, and working alongside countless women and families across the state of Colorado facing difficult pregnancies for the past decade, I know firsthand the importance of offering life-affirming resources and support to pregnant moms. I have never looked back and regretted the decision to give life to my son. He has brought life abundant joy and meaning. The decision to have our son despite an unplanned and difficult pregnancy strengthened our family and our faith. We are called to protect all lives at stake, both mother and child. We can not only save the lives of late-term babies, but reaffirm the dignity of their mothers. There is a community of support and resources in our state for these moms who feel pressured to choose a late-term abortion, and they deserve better. Vote yes on Proposition 115 in Colorado.”
